

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES MEDICAL CARE

SECTION 1905(b)(1)(B) - MEDICAL CARE REIMBURSEMENT
This section of the law provides for the reimbursement of medical care costs for certain individuals who are aged, blind, or disabled.

Under this section, an individual who is aged, blind, or disabled may be eligible for reimbursement of medical care costs if the individual meets certain requirements. These requirements include that the individual must be a resident of the United States, must be a citizen or national of the United States, and must be a member of a family with a net worth that does not exceed a certain limit.

Medical care costs that are eligible for reimbursement under this section include the costs of medical services, medical supplies, and medical equipment that are necessary for the diagnosis, treatment, or prevention of a disease, injury, or condition.

Medical care costs that are not eligible for reimbursement under this section include the costs of medical care that is provided in a hospital, nursing home, or other institution, the costs of medical care that is provided in a private home, and the costs of medical care that is provided in a facility that is operated for the purpose of making a profit.

Medical care costs that are eligible for reimbursement under this section are subject to certain limitations. These limitations include that the costs must be reasonable and customary, and that they must be paid for by the individual or a third party.

Medical care costs that are eligible for reimbursement under this section are also subject to certain requirements regarding the individual's financial resources. These requirements include that the individual must have a net worth that does not exceed a certain limit, and that the individual must have a certain level of income.

Medical care costs that are eligible for reimbursement under this section are also subject to certain requirements regarding the individual's medical condition. These requirements include that the individual must be aged, blind, or disabled, and that the individual must be unable to support themselves financially.
