

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT - SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

CONFERENCE REPORT:

The conference, organized by the United Nations, was a landmark event in the history of international development. It brought together leaders from all over the world to discuss the challenges of sustainable development and to set a global agenda for the future.

The conference was held in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, in 1992. It was the first time that a major international conference was held in a developing country.

The conference was a success. It produced a number of important documents, including the Rio Declaration on Environment and Development, the Agenda 21 action plan, and the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change.

The conference was a landmark event in the history of international development. It brought together leaders from all over the world to discuss the challenges of sustainable development and to set a global agenda for the future.

The conference was a success. It produced a number of important documents, including the Rio Declaration on Environment and Development, the Agenda 21 action plan, and the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change.

The conference was a landmark event in the history of international development. It brought together leaders from all over the world to discuss the challenges of sustainable development and to set a global agenda for the future.

