

INTERNATIONAL TRADE AND COMMERCE

II TRADE POLICY

Introduction: International trade and commerce are essential components of a country's economic growth and development. This course explores the various aspects of international trade, including the role of trade policy, the impact of trade agreements, and the challenges faced by developing countries. The course is designed to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of the international trade system and its impact on the global economy.

The course is divided into two main parts: (i) Trade Policy and (ii) Trade Agreements. The first part focuses on the role of trade policy in international trade, while the second part examines the impact of trade agreements on the global economy.

The course is designed to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of the international trade system and its impact on the global economy. The course is divided into two main parts: (i) Trade Policy and (ii) Trade Agreements. The first part focuses on the role of trade policy in international trade, while the second part examines the impact of trade agreements on the global economy.

Trade Policy

Trade policy is a set of government actions that regulate international trade. It includes the imposition of tariffs, the negotiation of trade agreements, and the implementation of trade policies. Trade policy is a key tool for governments to promote economic growth and development. The course will explore the various aspects of trade policy, including the role of trade policy in international trade, the impact of trade agreements, and the challenges faced by developing countries.

Trade Agreements

Trade agreements are formal arrangements between two or more countries that regulate international trade. They typically include provisions on tariffs, trade barriers, and trade policies. Trade agreements are a key tool for governments to promote economic growth and development. The course will explore the various aspects of trade agreements, including the role of trade agreements in international trade, the impact of trade agreements on the global economy, and the challenges faced by developing countries.

