

The diagram illustrates the number 100 as a collection of four groups, each represented by a 5x5 grid of squares. The top-left group is filled with 100 squares, while the other three groups are empty. This visualizes the concept of 100 as 4 groups of 25.

□□□□ □□ □□□□ ::

[illegible]

00000000 000 00000000 0000 000 000 00000000 00000000 00000000
 000000000000 000000 0000, 0000 0000 0000000000 000 0000 0000
 0000000000 00000000 0000 0000 000 00000000 00000000 00000000 000 000
 00000000 0000 00000000 000000000000 00000000 000000 00000000 0000 000
 00000 00000 000000 000000000000 00 00000000 00000000 0000 00 000000
 000000 0000000000 0000 00 0000000000 00000000000000 0000 000000000000
 00000 00 00000000 000000000000 0000 00000 00000 0000000000

0000 00000000 00 00000000 00000 0000 00000 00000 00000 000000
 00 00000000 000 0000000 000000 0000000 0000 000000 00000000 00000000,
 000000 00000000000 000000 000 0000 000 000000, 00000000000 00000 00000000 000000 00000 00000000 0000000000 00000000 000000 0000000 00000 00000000 00 00000 00 0000000 000 00 0000 00000?

[illegible]

[illegible]

11

000000 000000 000000
 000000 0000000 00000000
 0000000000 0000, 000000000, 00000
 0 00000000 0000